12. [redacted] Called Winslow Turner, who is the Counsel to Senator Lee Metcalf (D., Mont.), on the Senator's bill concerning advisory committee legislation, S. 3529. Eventually, Turner agreed to our proposed amendment that "This Act shall not apply to an advisory committee which furnishes advice or recommendations only with respect to national security or intelligence matters." I told Mr. Turner that Mr. Maury intends to personally deliver to Chairman McClellan our formal report on the bill and asked if we ought to inform any other staff aides whom McClellan might conceivably call upon for advice, and he recommended Mr. Jim Calloway, Chief Counsel of the Majority Staff, Senate Government Operations Committee.

Later in the day, I met with Jim Calloway and Tom Gunn, Professional Staff Member of the Committee, and briefed them on our problem, proposed solution, and the forthcoming meeting between Mr. Maury and Chairman McClellan. Mr. Calloway said that he thought we would have no problem after I informed him of my discussions with Turner and Irish McRae, of the Committee staff, and said he would take the matter up with Chairman McClellan and inform me of the results. Later, Calloway reported that he had met with Chairman McClellan explaining that Mr. Maury was prepared to meet with him but that Chairman McClellan said this was not necessary and that he would accept our amendment. Calloway asked that the Director's formal report be sent to him so it could be included in the record.

13. [redacted] Jay Sourwine, Chief Counsel, Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, called on behalf of Senator James Eastland (D., Miss.) for a constituent who is leaving town shortly but wanted to review the last eleven issues of the "Chronicle of Current Events" for a doctoral thesis at the University of Mississippi. Through the efforts of [redacted] CA Staff, we were able to provide the material in question to Sourwine and he said that the Senator would be very appreciative.
